the authors do a good job using the diaries interviews and books written by group members to convey a vivid sometimes too vivid picture of war at its most elemental the journal of the air force historical foundation in february 1942 a reconnaissance party of united states army air force officers arrived in england firmly wedded to the doctrine of daylight precision bombing they believed they could help turn the tide of the war in europe in the months that followed they formed the eighth air force an organization that grew at an astonishing rate to accommodate it almost seventy airfields were hastily built across the eastern counties of england at the heart of the eighth air force was its bombardment groups each equipped with scores of heavily armed four engine bombers these boeing b 17 flying fortresses and consolidated b 24 liberators were soon punching through the enemy s defenses to bomb targets vital to its war effort they were crewed by thousands of young american airmen most of whom were volunteers this book tells the story of just one bomb group the 381st which crossed the atlantic in may 1943 arriving at raf ridgewell on the essex suffolk border its airmen quickly found themselves thrown into the hazardous and attritional air battle raging in the skies over europe the 381st s path led from its formation in the texan desert to its 297th and final bombing mission deep into the heart of hitler s third reich this is the remarkable story of one group and the part it played in the strategic bombing campaign of the mighty eighth this book discusses the role of political narratives in shaping perceptions of instability and conceptions of order in the middle east and north africa mena the authors illustrate how in times of socio political turmoil and outbursts of discontent such as the arab spring political entrepreneurs explain and justify their political agendas by complementing hard power solutions with attractive ideas and discursive constructions that appeal to domestic constituencies and geopolitical allies the book is divided into two parts the first focuses on non state actors such as confessional communities and ideological movements who aim to develop narratives that are convincing to their respective polities it also studies regional powers that seek to determine their positions in a competitive environment via distinctive narrations of order in part two the authors investigate the narratives of global players that aim to explain and justify their role in an evolving international order the english pharmacist turned raf aircrew member recounts his missions fighting against the third reich during world war ii les bartlett has become one of the great characters of world war ii history he flew as bomb aimer with the then flying officer michael beetham who later became marshal of the royal air force at that time he was a sergeant but gained his commission in april 1944 and flew his tour including twenty seven raids over germany and france between november 1943 and may 1944 on his second operation his aircraft was attacked by a ju 88 leaving it with no flaps or brakes a crash landing at wittering ensued at the end of his third mission they found the whole of lincolnshire fogbound and eventually landed at raf melbourne in yorkshire just before that airfield was closed also because of the fog his aircraft was hit in the wing by a 30lb incendiary bomb dropped by another lancaster flying above them on his sixth operation but they survived on his twelfth operation to leipzig he used the nose guns to destroy a ju 88 night fighter for which he was awarded the dfm in february 1944 the port outer engine caught fire and the crew baled out les was then posted as assistant adjutant to raf thornaby abstract this thesis examined both the rationale and objectives of states in resorting to air power in contemporary asymmetrical conflicts in the middle east focusing on the three cases of aerial operations on hezbollah in lebanon isis in syria and the houthi rebels in yemen the thesis concluded that states adopt post heroic military policies that prioritize avoiding casualties among the ranks of their armed forces which carries a series of negative consequences on achieving the objectives of the war especially amid limited or no backing by ground and naval troops a shattering account of war and disillusionment from a young woman reporting from the front lines of the war on terror shortlisted for the national book award you ll be thinking about this book long after you turn the final page jon krakauer author of into thin air a few weeks after the planes crashed into the world trade centre on 9 11 la times journalist megan stack was thrust into afghanistan and pakistan dodging gunmen and prodding warlords for information she then travelled to other war ravaged countries of the middle east including israel and libya witnessing and telling the stories of the changing muslim world stack relates her initial wild excitement and her slow disillusionment as the cost of violence outweighs the elusive promise of freedom and democracy she reports from under bombardment in lebanon records the raw pain of suicide bombings in israel and one by one marks the deaths and disappearance of those she interviews every man in this village is a liar is a deeply human memoir about the wars of the twenty first century beautiful savage and unsettling it is an indispensable book of our times since the end of the cold war academic debate over the nature of war in the contemporary world has focused upon the asymmetric nature of conflict among a raft of failed or failing states often held together by only a fragile notion of a shared communal destiny little scholarly attention has been paid however to one such conflict that predates the ending of the cold war yet still appears as intractable as ever israel s hostile relationship with lebanon and in particular its standoff with the lebanese shi a militia group hizbollah as events surrounding the second lebanon war in the summer of 2006 demonstrate the clear potential for further cross border violence as well as the potential for a wider regional conflagration that embraces damascus and tehran remains as acute as ever this book focuses on the historical background of the conflict while also considering the role that other external actors most notably syria iran and the united nations play in influencing the conduct and outcomes of the israeli lebanese conflict in addition it also looks at hizbollah s increasing sway in lebanese domestic politics its increased military cooperation with iran and syria and the implications of such developments fifteen years after the end of a protracted civil and regional war beirut broke out in violence once again forcing residents to contend with many forms of insecurity amid an often violent political and economic landscape providing a picture of what ordinary life is like for urban dwellers surviving sectarian violence the insecure city captures the day to day experiences of citizens of beirut moving through a war torn landscape while living in beirut kristin monroe conducted interviews with a diverse group of residents of the city she found that when people spoke about getting around in beirut they were also expressing larger concerns about social political and economic life it was not only violence that threatened beirut s ordinary residents but also class dynamics that made life even more precarious for instance the installation of checkpoints and the rerouting of traffic set up for the security of the elite forced the less fortunate to alter their lives in ways that made them more at risk similarly the ability to pass through security blockades often had to do with an individual s visible markers of class such as clothing hairstyle and type of car monroe examines how understandings and practices of spatial mobility in the city reflect social differences and how such experiences led residents to be bitterly critical of their government in the insecure city monroe takes urban anthropology in a new and meaningful direction discussing traffic in the middle east to show that when people move through beirut they are experiencing the intersection of citizen and state of the more and less privileged and in general the city s politically polarized geography

the ultimate history of the blitz and bombing in the second world war from wolfson prize winning historian and author richard overy the use of massive fleets of bombers to kill and terrorize civilians was an aspect of the second world war which continues to challenge the idea that allies specifically fought a moral war for britain bombing became perhaps its principal contribution to the fighting as night after night exceptionally brave men flew over occupied europe destroying its cities the bombing war radically overhauls our understanding of the war it is the first book to examine seriously not just the most well known parts of the campaign but the significance of bombing on many other fronts the german use of bombers on the eastern front for example as well as much newly discovered material on the more familiar blitz on britain or the allied campaigns against italian cities the result is the author s masterpiece a rich gripping picture of the second world war and the terrible military technological and ethical issues that relentlessly drove all its participants into an abyss reviews magnificent must now be regarded as the standard work on the bombing war it is probably the most important book published on the history of the second world war this century richard j evans guardian monumental this is a major contribution to one of the most controversial aspects of the second world war full of new detail and charged with the formidable task of locating and marking german targets for attack by the main force of bomber command the path finder force 8 pff group and those in 5 group was perhaps the most experienced and highly trained elite group created within the royal air force during world war ii its aircrew members were almost entirely volunteers and despite the terrifying odds against any individual or complete crew ever completing the sixty sorties tour of operations with the pff the most feared punishment was to forfeit their coveted path finder wings and be posted away to other units this remarkable evocation of a remarkable force is made up largely of narrative and photographs from the men who flew with or were an integral part of the pff they alone are best qualified to recount the path finder story while the subject matter herein largely covers the four engined stirlings halifaxes and lancasters and twin engined mosquitoes of 8 pff group the path finding techniques used by 5 group are not forgotten and there are two chapters detailing the work of the oboe mosquitoes and other markers in support of the night and day main force raids on german and italian cities and individual targets in the reich this book is a fitting tribute to the pff and in particular to the crews who failed to return from the pff s many operations this the fourth volume of a five part work that provides a comprehensive insight into all aspects of raf bomber command in world war two begins in the spring of 1944 with a completely new insight on the catastrophic raid on nuremburg on the night of 30 31 march and follows with the disastrous attack on mailly le camp in may gradually the allied bomber offensive began to bear fruit and in june 1944 the invasion of normandy took place under an umbrella of almost total allied air superiority raf bomber command was to play a huge part in what proved to be the final steps to ultimate victory returning to the mass raids on german cities by night and even mounting raids on the reich by day the authors well tried formula of using background information interspersed with the crews personal narrative takes you raid by raid through each tour of ops while carrying full bomb loads in sub zero temperatures blighted by atrocious weather conditions and dogged by fear of fire death or serious injury or having to endure months if not years of miserable existence and near starvation behind the wire in notorious pow camps the path to peace was paved with the unmitigated slow ebbing of courage with an ever present possibility of death unannounced from a prowling night fighter nondescript and unseen as night after incessant night shattered and ailing bombers could run out of luck to crash in some foreign field while other crews almost home almost empty ran out of fuel and died horrible tortuous deaths in twisted and tangled wreckage not for them the glory that was accorded the few but as winston churchill said fighters are our salvation but the bombers alone provide the means of victory this is a comprehensive survey of minorities in the middle east with a special focus on the post arab spring era minority communities in the middle east are the most susceptible to the turbulence engulfing the region the majority may suffer physical violence and socioeconomic loss but minorities could potentially vanish instead of ushering in democracy and inclusive politics the revolutionary upheavals have prompted chaos and fear and reinforced the resurgence of islamic fundamentalism throughout the region zabad uses historical sources as well as first hand interviews to vividly describe the current status of minorities in the middle east explaining attitudes towards the revolutionary upheavals as well as the various strategies they used to avail themselves of the opportunities presented and to confront the risks posed the question of ethnic sectarian and religious minorities is situated in the context of the broader history of the region in order to explain the underlying institutional and ideological factors that caused their predicament and problematized their relationship with the majority the book provides a rich trove of information and insights generated from ten case studies that covered the shī'a in Saudi Arabia, Bahrain, Lebanon, and Egypt; the Druze, the Alawites, Christians, and Kurds in Syria; the Copts in Egypt; and the Zaydis in Yemen.

This text traces the history of the fabric of Hanoi from its origins 1000 years ago. It examines how the shape of the city reflects changing political, cultural, and economic conditions over a millennium of intermittent warfare and waves of cultural change and migration. Drawing on his experience as heritage advisor, the author looks at the challenges facing those who seek to preserve the best features of Hanoi's architecture and streetscapes while improving the living conditions of its residents.

A new and definitive account of the German invasion of Poland that initiated WWII in 1939, written by a historian at the height of his abilities. Deeply researched, very well written, this book will be the standard work on the subject for many years to come. Andrew Roberts, author of Churchill Walking with Destiny: The Polish Campaign, is the forgotten story of the Second World War. The war began on 1 September 1939 when German tanks, trucks, and infantry crossed the Polish border, and the Luftwaffe began bombing Polish towns and cities. The Polish army fought bravely but could not withstand the concentrated attack when the Red Army invaded from the east. The country's fate was sealed. This is the first history of the Polish War for almost half a century, drawing on letters, memoirs, and diaries from all sides. Roger Moorhouse's dramatic account of the military events is entwined with a human story of courage and suffering, and a dark tale of diplomatic betrayal. Important: Moorhouse has a wonderful knack for reminding us about the parts of the Second World War that we are in danger of forgetting. Dan Snow, shortlisted for the Duke of Wellington Medal for Military History, 2020.

The Allied bombing of Berlin was the longest and most sustained bombing offensive against one target in the Second World War. The Berlin Blitz, by those who were there, is a compelling, gripping, and thought-provoking story of the Allied bombing forces and the ordinary people on the ground, told in their own tongue and with meticulous attention to detail. The result is a coherent single story which unfolds in a straightforward and incisive narrative. This work draws attention in some detail to the major raids on the Reich capital by RAF Bomber Command from the late summer of 1940 to September 1943. It begins with the reliable but largely ineffective twin-engined Blenheims, Hampdens, Wellingtons, and Whitleys, through to the introduction into front-line service of the four-engined heavies the stirring manchester and halifax which bore the brunt of the bomber offensive until the advent of the incomparable avro lancaster in 1942 and the superlative mosquito on 30 january 1943 on the tenth anniversary of hitler's usurpation of power two formations each of three mosquitoes appeared over berlin in daylight and interrupted large rallies being addressed by goering and goebbels sir arthur harris commander in chief raf bomber command hoped to 'wreck berlin from end to end' and 'produce a state of devastation in which german surrender is inevitable' but the 'big city' as it was known to his faithful 'old lags' was never completely destroyed what is the relationship between social work and the state who controls which services needs are addressed and how this important book looks at social work responses in different countries to extreme social economic and political situations in order to answer these questions examples include war situations military regimes earthquakes and tsunamis the results show the innovative nature of grass roots provision and social work intervention and will be of interest to all social work academics students and professionals eventually most terrorist and guerrilla groups are defeated by governments or gradually die off sometimes becoming political parties democratically participating in the non violent governance of their states yet some terrorist and guerrilla groups maintain military capabilities using violence and democratic participation simultaneously here krista e wiegand examines the different political strategies that islamist terrorist and guerrilla groups use to achieve their political objectives focussing on hezbollah in lebanon and hamas in palestine wiegand skilfully reveals the factors that determine why islamist militant groups become involved in governance as political parties how mainstream governments may or may not accept them as legitimate why some groups like al gama a al islamiya in egypt renounce guerrilla tactics and how some groups govern whilst employing political violence bombs and ballots is a valuable contribution to the study of state society relations in the middle east exposing the blurred line between terrorist activity and governance an independent book of the month what was the mood of the british people during the middle and later years of the second world war how did they react to the major military and domestic events of the period what issues were uppermost in their minds what incidents caused particular public interest and controversy these are some of the insights provided by this remarkable collection of contemporary wartime documents during the second world war home intelligence a unit of the ministry of information closely monitored british public attitudes on the home front and compiled secret reports on the state of popular morale which were circulated around whitehall in this volume leading historian of the period jeremy crang brings together selected home intelligence reports from june 1941 to december 1944 to offer us a fascinating real time glimpse into the mindset of the british people during these long years of struggle the reports provide a unique window into public responses to the shifting military fortunes of the war including the german invasion of the soviet union the japanese attack on pearl harbor the british and commonwealth victory at el alamein the strategic bombing of germany the defeat of italy and the allied landings in normandy they also include much valuable information on the continuing stresses and strains of wartime life such as the blackout rationing fuel economy and strikes as well as the v weapon attacks of 1944 which brought back all the horrors of the blitz alongside this hopes and fears about the post war world come to feature strongly and home intelligence carefully documented attitudes to the beveridge report as well as other aspects of reconstruction introduced by the editor and incorporating an extensive glossary this collection is an exceptional record of popular opinion on the british home front as the tide of war gradually turned from defeat to victory it is indispensable in understanding both the unity and diversity of wartime britain as well as the many sided experience of living through our people s war decades before al qaeda took shape religious radicals in southeast asia were laying the groundwork for a struggle to achieve a backward looking utopia this is the story of jemaah islamiyah ji the secretive organization that spans no less than half a dozen nations and seeks the full implementation of their intolerant take on islam in the second front inside asia s most dangerous terrorist network best selling author ken conboy pieces together the planning and execution of ji s most deadly terrorist acts from exclusive interviews and classified reports in details never before revealed it delves into the minds of the group s leaders from the professorial bomb expert azhari to the al qaeda proxy hambali from the shadows of the hindu kush to battlefields on the spice islands the second front peels back the veil of secrecy and chronicles the successes in bringing down this network as well as exposes the missed opportunities by regional governments to prevent terrorist acts and sectarian violence that have taken the lives of thousands ken conboy the bestselling author of intel inside indonesia s intelligence service and kopassus inside indonesia s special forces is country manager for risk management advisory a private security consultancy in jakarta prior to that he served as deputy director at the asian studies center an influential washington based think tank where his duties including writing policy papers for the u s congress and executive on economic and strategic relations with the nations of south and southeast asia a graduate of georgetown university s school of foreign service and of johns hopkins school of advanced international studies conboy was also a visiting fellow at chulalongkorn university in bangkok and has lived in indonesia since 1992 the lancasters looked like enormous deadly black birds going off into the night somehow they looked different when they came back the planes carried from this field 117 000 pounds of high explosives and the crews flew all night to drop the load as ordered now the trains would not run between france and italy for a while not on those bombed tracks anyhow here are the men who did it with mussed hair and weary faces dirty sweaters under their flying suits sleep bright eyes making humble comradely little jokes and eating their saved up chocolate bars martha gellhorn this riveting and highly intriguing collection of pilot and civilian reminiscences works to commemorate the spirit of the almighty lancaster bomber each chapter is dedicated to a unique individual or group of individuals who took part in its history in some capacity be they pilot civilian or journalist each played their own part and their accounts offer a host of fascinating insights episodes featured include the battle for munich and the nuremburg and berlin raids stories of pows downed in their lancasters and captured in enemy territory also feature communicating a real sense of peril experienced behind enemy lines two sections of fascinating black and white photographs supplement and complete this trawl through the history of the lancaster bomber and the men and women who witnessed its glory days cheating and deception are terms often used but rarely defined they summon up unpleasant connotations even those deeply involved with cheating and deception rationalize why they have been driven to it particularly for americans and much of western civilization official cheating government duplicity cheating as policy and conscious contrived deception are all unacceptable except as a last resort in response to threat of extinction as a distasteful tool deception is rarely used to achieve national interests unless in relation to the deployment of military force as an area of study it has by and large been ignored intrigued by attitudes toward cheating and deception the authors decided to analyze its roots structure and process they asked fundamental questions are there categories of deception general steps in the process of deception and ways to evaluate its results across time and in different modes the book that results is a typology of kinds of deception beginning with military deception but extending into other categories and stages in his introduction to this new edition bell outlines how the book came to be written describes the mixed emotions toward the subject displayed by governmental and nongovernmental funding sources and speculates about its critical and commercial reception he discusses widespread new interest in the subject the research that has been undertaken since this book was first published and its limitations this book provides a general overview of this complex subject creating a framework for analysis of specific instances of cheating or deception it will be of particular interest to political scientists those interested in military affairs and strategy and psychologists the general reader will find the book written with a light touch drawing examples of cheating and deception in the pursuit of love and money the specialist reader will be intrigued by its broad ranging examples drawn from policy and politics
