as southern lebanon becomes the latest battleground for islamist warriors everyday jihad plunges us into the sprawling heavily populated palestinian refugee camp at ain al helweh which in the early 1990s became a site for militant sunni islamists a place of refuge for arabs hunted down in their countries of origin and a recruitment ground for young disenfranchised palestinians the camp where sheikhs began actively recruiting for jihad situated itself in the global geography of radical islam with pioneering fieldwork bernard rougier documents how sunni fundamentalists combining a literal interpretation of sacred texts with a militant interpretation of jihad took root in this palestinian milieu by staying very close to the religious actors their discourse perceptions and means of persuasion rougier helps us to understand how radical religious allegiances overcome traditional nationalist sentiment and how jihadist networks grab hold in communities marked by unemployment poverty and despair with the emergence of hezbollah the shiite political party and guerrilla army at the forefront of lebanese and regional politics relations with the palestinians will be decisive the palestinian camps of lebanon whose disarmament is called for by the international community constitute a contentious arena for a multitude of players syria and iran hezbollah and the palestinian authority and bin laden and the late zarqawi witnessing everyday jihad in their midst offers readers a rare glimpse into a microcosm of the religious sectarian and secular struggles for the political identity of the middle east today taking issue with the convenient views that the middle east is an irrational and exceptional region of world politics and that the long and bloody history of the palestine conflict is proof the authors combine theoretical reflection and empirical investigation marrying international relations theory and middle east area studies through integrating macro and micro perspectives tracing the interaction of global and regional environments with individuals pursuing political goals this book rejects the cultural stereotype of middle eastern exceptionalism and argues that regional patterns of conflict are deeply embedded in international and transnational relations and that their particular trajectories have to be interpreted in light of global political developments this book brings together testimonials from people of different nationalities and professions who are pro palestinian whether as scholars film makers artists musicians activists or ngo workers using what oral historians call the focused life history renowned scholar rosemary sayigh invites her contributors to describe the experiences events motives and feelings that led them to support the palestinian cause the book is the first of its kind in palestiniography and includes voices from countries across the world a chapter is dedicated to each country and contributors are asked to reveal how they discovered palestine given that palestine is rarely mentioned in school textbooks or university courses whether by travel friendship study membership in a political party or book group they are also asked to detail what specific forms their engagement has taken ranging scholarly creative militant or charitable and what their hopes are for the international solidarity movement finally each contributor reflects on if they feel a just and equitable solution can ever be achieved for palestinians and if they accept the label pro palestinian or would rather define their relationship to the palestinians in some other way with testimonies from both high profile and grassroots activists the book is a rich and personal selection that reflects the diversity dynamism and global nature of the movement for palestine

a fascinating account of the intifada struggle by palestinians in the occupied territories against israeli governments the first part of which was a mass civil disobedience movement of stone against bullets which israeli security forces contained only with great difficulty resorting to doubtful methods that included detention without trial kidnapping and assassinations criticized by human rights organisations and the united nations palestinians and the iranian supported hezbollah operated suicide bombers and some palestinians resumed terrorist activity america intervened sponsoring a comprehensive middle east peace process in which israelis dragged their feet at the same time expanding jewish settlements on illegal territory eventually arafat became president of the self ruled palestine national authority salafism comprised of fundamentalist islamic movements whose adherents consider themselves the only saved sect of islam has been little studied remains shrouded in misconceptions and has provoked new interest as salafists have recently staked a claim to power in some arab states while spearheading battles against infidel arab regimes during recent rebellions in the arab world robert g rabil examines the emergence and development of salafism into a prominent religious movement in lebanon including the ideological and sociopolitical foundation that led to the three different schools of salafism in lebanon quietist salafists haraki active salafists and salafi jihadists emphasizing their manhaj methodology toward politics the author surveys salafists ideological transformation from opponents to supporters of political engagement their antagonism to hezbollah which they denounce as the party of satan has risen exponentially following the party's seizure of Beirut in 2008 and support of the tyrannical Syrian regime, Salafism in Lebanon also demonstrates how activists and jihadi Salafists in response to the political weakness of Sunni leadership have threatened regional and international security by endorsing violence and jihad. Drawing on field research, trips, personal interviews, and Arabic primary sources, the book explores the relationship between the ideologies of the various schools of Salafism and their praxis in relation to Lebanese politics. The book should interest students and scholars of Islamic movements, international affairs, politics and religion, and radical groups and terrorism.

This volume presents eight integrated essays that explore the intersection of the scholarly fields of gender and trauma, combining work that can broadly be located in the subject areas of literary studies, the humanities, and the social sciences. The contributors search for a more comprehensive theoretical ground to analyze the overlapping inter-agency and also the lines that separate the issues of gender and trauma to establish a more political linking of the materiality of the effects of trauma to the performativity of gender, as well as to examine the ways in which the categories of sex, sexual difference, and sexual identity figure within such a relationship. Likewise, our discussion is guided by the increasing awareness of the cross-cultural delineation dynamics and translatability of these fields, the awareness that facilitates the understanding of the instances of their interference in the rhetoric of a dominant culture and in dominant societal structures. This specific input, which refers to structurally quite comparable identity formations or to their prevention, and also to complex terms of symbolic legitimacy and intelligibility, is the attainment of a joined intercultural and interdisciplinary work on some of the key concerns we are confronting today.

Now available in paperback, this collection of essays offers an alternative approach to the study of today's Arab states by focusing on their participation in neo-liberal globalization rather than on authoritarianism or Islam. The effects of the restructuring of traditional state power engendered by globalization are analyzed separately through updated empirical research into the political, economic, and security processes of each country. Considered Egypt, Lebanon, Morocco, and Saudi Arabia are the case studies selected to represent different paths towards a shared model of a new Arab state which, far from representing an exceptional case of resilience against global trends, may be seen in many instances as typifying their effects. The book offers both an overall conceptualization of change affecting the Arab states domestically and internationally, and a series of in-depth case studies by country and functional areas. It is extremely timely when viewed within the context of the current political unrest and unprecedented change within the Middle East. This paperback edition includes a new preface which links the author's research to the current Arab Spring crisis.

The series Islamkundliche Untersuchungen was founded in 1969 by the Klaus Schwarz Verlag. Since then it has become one of the most important venues for publications in Islamic and Middle Eastern studies. Its more than 350 volumes cover a wide range of topics from the history, culture, and societies of the Middle East and North Africa, as well as neighboring regions in Central uprootedness exile and forced displacement be they due to conflict persecution or so called development are conditions which characterise the lives of millions across the globe this book analyses a range of displacement situations including development oustees refugees and internally displaced persons the story of a young girl from her days in the village of tantoura in palestine up to the dawn of the new century this book provides an in depth and intimate study of the cinema of muhammad malas one of the well known auteurs of arab and syrian cinema malas s distinctive cinematic project has always confronted the social and political issues of his time from feature films dreams of the city the night bab al maqam passion and ladder to damascus to documentaries such as the dream and aleppo maqamat of pleasure malas s films challenge and explore arab culture and history archival images run through the chapters of this book which combines insightful interviews with excerpts from malas s literary works and critical explorations of his cinematic style and thematic concerns the book concludes with malas s own words sharing the treatment of his film project cinema al dunya the nakba not only resulted in the loss of the homeland but also caused the dispersal and ruin of entire palestinian communities even though the term nakba refers to a singular historic event the consequence of 1948 has symptomatically become part of palestinian identity and the element that demarcates who the palestinian is palestinian exile and loss have evolved into cultural symbols that at once help define the person and allow the person to remember the loss although accounts of the palestinians experience of the expulsion from the land are similar the emblems that provoke these particular memories differ certain mementos memories or objects help in commemorating the homeland this book looks at the icons narratives and symbols that have become synonymous with palestinian identity and culture and which have in the absence of a homeland become a source of memory it discusses how these icons have come into being and how they have evolved into sites of power which help to keep the story and identity of the palestinians alive the book looks at examples from palestinian caricature film literature poetry and painting to see how these works ignite memories of the homeland and help to reinforce the diasporic identity it also argues that the creators of these narratives or emblems have themselves become cultural icons within the collective palestinian recollection by introducing the nakba as a lived experience this book will appeal to students and scholars of middle east studies cultural studies literature and media studies in 2018 palestinians mark the 70th anniversary of the nakba when over 750 000 people were uprooted and forced to flee their homes in the early days of the israeli palestinian conflict even today the bitterness and trauma of the nakba remains raw and it has become the pivotal event both in the shaping of palestinian identity and in galvanising the resistance to occupation unearthing an unparalleled body of rich oral testimony an oral history of the palestinian nakba tells the story of this epochal event through the voices of the palestinians who lived it uncovering remarkable new insights both into palestinian experiences of the nakba and into the wider dynamics of the ongoing conflict drawing together palestinian accounts from 1948 with those of the present day the book confronts the idea of the nakba as an event consigned to the past instead revealing it to be an ongoing process aimed at the erasure of palestinian memory and history in the process each unique and wide ranging contribution leads the way for new directions in palestinian scholarship in 1980 syrian filmmaker mohammad malas traveled to lebanon to film a documentary of interviews with palestinians of the refugee camps around beirut about their dreams the dream a diary of the film is malas s haunting chronicle of his immersion in the life of the camps including shatila burj al barajneh nahr al bared and ein al helweh it also describes the filmmaking process from the research stage to the film s unofficial release in shatila camp before it reached a global audience in vivid and poetic detail malas provides a snapshot of palestinian refugees at a critical juncture of lebanon s bloody civil war and at the height of the plo s power in lebanon before the 1982 israeli invasion and the plo s subsequent expulsion malas probes his subjects dreams and existential fears with an artist s acute sensitivity revealing the extent to which the wounds and contingencies of palestinian statelessness are woven into the tapestry of a fragmented arab nationalism although he halted his work on the film in 1982 following the massacres of sabra and shatila he completed it in 1987 turning 400 interviews into 23 dreams and 45 minutes of screen time both diary and film present these people somewhere between present and past tense but they are preserved forever in the word magnetic tape and now in digital code the dream is essential reading for anyone interested in the history of the palestinians in the modern middle east and for students and scholars of arab filmmaking politics and literature matthew preston returns politics to its rightful place at the heart of the study of internal conflict rejecting approaches that emphasise economics or ethnicity this comparative investigation of the wars in rhodesia and lebanon sets out the complex political dynamic that eventually produced the ultimately successful peace agreements of lancaster house and taif respectively it was a dynamic though in which the ebbs and flows of events at the negotiating table and on the battlefield played only a supporting role rather more significant were power struggles within belligerent parties that brought consolidated yet unscrupulous leadership growing disempowerment and suffering of civilians of all communities and the acquisition and subsequent leverage over the belligerents by regional powers yet the years of negotiation over seats in parliament failed to usher in a democratic era in either country peace brought a de escalation in violence but the political struggle continued to be won decisively by robert mugabe s zanu pf in independent zimbabwe and by syria and her allies in lebanon at a time when western leaders proclaim the political necessity of addressing failed states ending civil war provides a salutary reminder that the competing elites of those failed states possess their own political agendas ones frequently resistant to the command of great but distant powers the primary agendas of civil war in rhodesia and lebanon were not those of economic greed nor of ethnic hatred but of the age old phenomenon of the struggle for control of organisations of civilians and ultimately of the state the idioms of violence were those of the time cyclical bouts of fighting massacres assassinations and kidnappings but the deployment of limited violence for political ends was one which Carl von Clausewitz would clearly have recognised more than four million Palestinian refugees live in protracted exile across the Middle East taking a regional approach to Palestinian refugee exile and alienation across the Levant this book proposes a new understanding of the spatial and political dimensions of refugee camps across the Middle East combining critical scholarship with ethnographic insight the essays uncover host states marginalisation of stateless refugees and shed light on new terminology on refugees migration and diaspora studies the impact on the refugee community is detailed in novel studies of refugee identity memory and practice and new legal approaches to compensation and right of return the book opens a critical debate on key concepts and proposes a new understanding of the spatial and political dimensions of refugee camps better understood as laboratories of Palestinian society and state in making this strong collection of original essays is an essential resource for scholars and students in refugee studies forced migration disaster studies legal anthropology urban studies international law and Middle East history terrorism the plague thus far of the 21st century requires organisations to fund and inculcate perspective members these organisations have grown steadily while the developed countries have either ignored them wished they would go away or taken outright steps to affront them this new book presents the history tactics and connections of foreign terrorist organisations as well as detailing some of their organisational structures and activities the true story of a young Glaswegian nurse battling to survive in the besieged Palestinian refugee camp of Gourj al Brajneh Beirut Suzy Wighton talked about what it was like living on a day to day basis in a war zone with the memory of the horrific 1985 massacre at nearby Shatilla camp fresh in mind knowing that few outside were even aware of the appalling suffering and degradation this book combines a vast encyclopaedic history of the war in Lebanon with a penetrating sociological analysis tracing the war to its origins the author shows that it has been primarily a surrogate war over Palestine which escalated into a conflict between the diverse Lebanese communities each afraid of being the player left standing in a macabre game of musical chairs Hanf's central theme is the problem of conflict and conflict regulation between these groups how were conflicts regulated peacefully before the war how did the country come to be the battlefield of both a surrogate war and a civil war how do the Lebanese view what has happened in their country what are their aspirations and how do they conceive a realistic settlement is there any prospect of reestablishing coexistence between different elements of lebanese society the author sets out to answer these and other important questions using a wide range of literature as well as his own extensive research in the country he writes optimistically suggesting that although fear can breed a vicious circle of hatred and violence it can also produce reason and compromise the book brings together leading experts on terrorism and security with analysis on the inner workings of terrorist groups their motives and aims and their relationships with one another
