voicing demands is a collection of analytical narratives of what has happened to feminist voice a key pathway to women's empowerment these narratives depart from the existing debate on women's political engagement in formal institutions to examine feminist activism for building and sustaining constituencies through raising negotiating and legitimizing women's voice under different contexts bringing together the reflections and experiences of feminist researchers and activists in south asia the middle east africa and latin america this unique volume explores how various global trends such as the development of transnational linkages the rise of conservative forces the ngoization of feminist movements and an increase in the power of donors have created opportunities and challenges for feminist voice and activism religion is considered a key predictor of volunteering the more religious people are the more likely they are to volunteer this positive association enjoys significant support in current research in fact it could be considered the default perspective on the relationship between both phenomena in this book the authors claim that although the dominant approach is legitimate and essential it nonetheless falls short in grasping the full complexity of the interaction between religion and volunteering it needs to be recognized that there are tensions between religion and volunteering and that these tensions are intensifying as a result of the changing meaning and role of religion in society therefore the central aim and contribution of this book is to demonstrate that the relationship between religion and volunteering is not univocal but differentiated ambiguous and sometimes provocative by introducing the reader to a much wider landscape of perspectives this volume offers a richer more complex and variable understanding apart from the established positive causality the authors examine tensions between religion and volunteering from the perspective of religious obligation religious change processes of secularization and notions of post secularity they further explore how actions that are considered altruistic politically neutral and motivated by religious beliefs can be used for political reasons this volume opens up the field to new perspectives on religious actors and on how religion and volunteering are enacted outside western liberal and christian societies it emphasizes interdisciplinary perspectives including theology philosophy sociology political science anthropology and architecture women the world over are being prevented from engaging in politics women s political leadership of any sort is a rarity and a career in politics rarer still we have however begun to understand what it takes to create an enabling environment for women s political participation in this exciting and pioneering collection writers from africa latin america and the middle east are brought together for the first time to talk explicitly about women s participation in the political scene across the global south answering such questions as how women can get political apprenticeship opportunities how these opportunities translate into the pursuit of a political career and how these pursuits then influence the kind of political platform women advocate once in power women in politics is essential reading for anyone interested in what it means to engage politically throughout the arab world islamist political movements are joining the electoral process this change alarms some observers and excites other in recent years electoral opportunities have opened and islamist movements have seized them but those opportunities while real have also been sharply circumscribed elections may be freer but they are not fair the opposition can run but it generally cannot win semiauthoritarian conditions prevail in much of the arab world even in the wake of the arab spring how do islamist movements change when they plunge into freer but unfair elections how do their organizations such as the muslim brotherhood and structures evolve what happens to their core ideological principles and how might their increased involvement affect the political system in when victory is not an option nathan j brown addresses these questions by focusing on islamist movements in egypt jordan kuwait and palestine he shows that uncertain benefits lead to uncertain changes islamists do adapt their organizations and their ideologies do bend some but leaders almost always preserve a line of retreat in case the political opening fizzles or fails to deliver what they wish the result is a cat and mouse game between dominant regimes and wily movements there are possibilities for more significant changes but to date they remain only possibilities which way will egypt go now that husni mubarak's authoritarian regime has been swept from power will it become an islamic theocracy similar to iran will it embrace western style liberalism and democracy egypt after mubarak reveals that egypt's secularists and islamists may yet navigate a middle path that results in a uniquely islamic form of liberalism and perhaps democracy bruce rutherford draws on in depth interviews with egyptian judges lawyers islamic activists politicians and businesspeople he utilizes major court rulings political documents of the muslim brotherhood and the writings of egypt's leading contemporary islamic thinkers rutherford demonstrates that in post mubarak egypt progress toward liberalism and democracy is likely to be slow essential reading on a subject of global importance this edition includes a new introduction by rutherford that takes stock of the arab spring and the muslim brotherhood's victories in the 2011 2012 elections this book analyzes women entrepreneurs in muslim countries who are using islamic values to develop and run small businesses as a core case study the authors are using indonesia as it is the largest muslim country in the world by population the project examines supportive policies and economic programs in detail and considers their effects on the businesses of several women entrepreneurs this volume explores dynamic conversations through history between individuals and communities over questions about religion and state divided into two sections our authors begin with considerations on the separation of religion and state as well as roger williams concept of religious freedom authors in the first half consider nuanced debates centered on emerging narratives with particular emphasis on native america early americans and experiences in american immigration after independence the first half of the volume examines voices in american history as they publicly engage with notions of secular ideology discussions then shift as the volume broadens to world perspectives on religion state relations authors consider critical questions of nation religious identity and transnational narratives the intent of this volume is to privilege new narratives about religion state relations decentering discussions away from national narratives allows for emerging voices at the individual and community levels this volume offers readers new openings through which to understand critical but overlooked interactions between individuals and groups of people with the state over questions about religion this handbook provides a cutting edge survey of the state of research on religions and global development part one highlights critical debates that have emerged within research on religions and development particularly with respect to theoretical conceptual and methodological considerations from the perspective of development studies and its associated disciplines parts two to six look at different regional and national development contexts and the place of religion within these these parts integrate and examine the critical debates raised in part one within empirical case studies from a range of religions and regions different religions are situated within actual locations and case studies thus allowing a detailed and contextual understanding of their relationships to development to emerge part seven examines the links between some important areas within development policy and practice where religion is now being considered including faith based organisations and development public health religion and development human rights religion and development sustainable development climate change and religion global institutions and religious engagement in development economic development and religion religion development and fragile states development and faith based education taking a global approach the handbook covers africa latin america south asia east and south east asia and the middle east it is essential reading for students and researchers in development studies and religious studies and is highly relevant to those working in area studies as well as a range of disciplines from theology anthropology and economics to geography international relations politics and sociology despite their small populations the arab states of the gulf exercise an enormous and global influence but all too often these states are treated as if their only importance were as pawns in a global strategic board game and are simply dealt with as mere models of the intersection of oil wealth and power here dresch and piscatori bring together a more nuanced picture exploring how the citizen populations of these states define themselves in a wider context the gulf provides extreme examples of the nexus of identities not only because these polities are so dependent on transnational flows of wealth and imagery but because at home the citizen workforce is often outnumbered by migrant labour examining the issues such as gulf owned transnational media the role of women in the kuwaiti state and the way saudi arabia manages the yearly influx of pilgrims for the hajj monarchies and nations is essential reading for all those interested in the society politics and the future security of the gulf
