the kurdisch iraqi conflict lies in the fact that kurdistan is a nation without a state and iraq is a non nation state each possessing a nationhood project differing from and opposing the other iraqi kurdistan is an outward looking entity seeking external patronage though external patronage has played a pivotal role in the evolution of the kurdisch quasi state a lack of the book examines several models which have been advocated for a workable and acceptable solution to the kurdish problem which would be absolutely necessary for stability in the west asian region the book evaluates how the more than two decade long experience of kurdish self rule in a democratic framework in iraqi kurdistan affects the debate over the other kurdish regions in west asia with turkey s european union accession process contributing to the opening of the political space to ethno nationalism there is a need for a non military solution to the kurdish issue the book analyses the role of kurdish diaspora which plays a significant part in placing the kurdish question on the european political agenda it also examines the role of the kurds in the aftermath of the arab spring and the changing geopolitics in the region now the kurds maintain the strongest platform in battling against the isis terrorists kurdistan the name given to the kurds historical homeland is a landlocked region that lies at the crossroads of turkey syria iraq and iran after the fall of ottoman empire the kurdish people were promised independence by the treaty of sevres in 1920 the kurds are known as a nation without borders and consider as a stateless people aftermath of the arab spring in 2010 kurdistan has witnessed an increase in nationalism and a shift in geo politics the book examines the various models which could be acceptable solution to the kurdish problem in west asian region it also evaluates the role of the kurdish diaspora placing kurdish issue in the international forum the kurdish peshmerga and ypg militia maintains one of the strongest forces confronting against the isis in west asian region the kurds once marginal in the study of the middle east and secondary in its international relations have moved to centre stage in recent years the contributors to the kurdish question revisited offer insights into how this once seemingly intractable immutable phenomenon is being transformed amid the new political realities of the middle east in turkey iran iraq and syria central governments historically pursued mono nationalist ideologies and repressed kurdish identity as evidenced by much unrest and a great many kurdish revolts in all these states since the 1920s however the kurds manifested strong resistance towards ethnic chauvinism what sorts of authoritarian state policies have turkey iraq iran and syria relied on to contain the kurds over the years can meaningful democratization and liberalization in any of these states occur without a fundamental change vis à vis their kurdish minorities to what extent does the kurdish issue function as both a barrier and key to democratization in four of the most important states of the middle east while many commentators on the middle east stress the importance of resolving the arab israeli dispute for achieving peace in the middle east this book asks whether or not the often overlooked kurdish issue may constitute a more important fulcrum for change in the region especially in light of the arab spring and recent changes in turkey iraq iran and syria how do religious ethnic and national identities interact in religiously homogenous ethnic conflicts is it possible for religion to act as a resolution tool in such conflicts why why not in search for answers to these questions under the banner of islam focuses on the ambivalent role sunni islam has played in turkey s kurdish conflict both as a conflict resolution tool and as a tool of resistance in the last two decades relying mainly on participant observation in civil friday prayers and 62 interviews conducted in three different cities in turkey istanbul and the majority kurdish diyarbakir and batman between june 2012 and june 2013 it demonstrates that sunni islam has had a very limited impact as a conflict resolution tool in turkey blending interview data with a detailed historical institutional analysis that goes back as early as the nineteenth century it argues that the strength of turkish and kurdish nationalisms the symbiotic relationship between turkey s religious and political fields religious elites varying conceptualizations of religious and ethnic identities and the recent political developments in the region particularly the establishment of an autonomous kurdish region rojava in syria have all contributed to this outcome the resulting narrative is not only a record of religion ethnicity and nationalism in turkey s kurdish conflict but also an investigation of how ethnic and religious identities are negotiated in conflict resolution and how symbolic boundaries are drawn in ethnic conflict zones based on unprecedented access to kurdish governed areas of syria including exclusive interviews with administration officials and civilian surveys this book sheds light on the socio political landscape of this minority group and the various political factions vying to speak for them the first english language book to capture the momentous transformations that have occurred since 2011 the authors move beyond idealized images of rojava and the kurdish pyd democratic union party to provide a nuanced assessment of the kurdish autonomous experience and the prospects for self rule in syria the book draws on unparalleled field research as well as analysis of the literature on the evolution of kurdish politics and the syrian war you will understand why the pyd led project in syria split the kurdish political movement and how other representative structures amongst syria s kurds fared emerging clearly are the complex range of views about pre existing current and future governance structures this book explores a common but almost forgotten historical argument that positions the kurds as powerless victims of the first world war ww1 to this end the book looks critically at the unfavourable political situations of the kurds in the post ww1 era which began with the emergence of three new modern nation states in the middle east turkey iraq and syria as well as related modernising events in iran it demonstrates the dire consequences of oppressive international and regional state policies against the kurds which led to mass displacement and forced migration of the kurds from the 1920s on the first part of the book sets out the context required to explain the historic and systematic sociopolitical marginalisation of the kurds in the middle eastern region until the present day in the second part the book attempts to explain the formation of kurdish diaspora communities in different european cities and to describe their new and positive shifting position from victims in the middle east to active citizens in europe this book examines kurdish diaspora integration and identity in some major cities in sweden finland and germany with a specific focus and an in depth discussion on the negotiation of multiculturalism in london this book uncovers the gaps in the existing literature and critically highlights the dominance of policy and politics driven research in this field thereby justifying the need for a more radical social constructivist approach by recognising flexible multifaceted and complex human cultural behaviours in different situations through the consideration of the lived experiences and by presenting more direct voices of members of the kurdish diaspora in london and by articulating the new and radical concept of kurdish londoner the region of the middle east is beset with a structural crisis of which particular crises confronting the component countries happen to be merely subsets the real questions revolve round the issue of how long can the present dispensations of power and social structures in the region forged in the twentieth century first half or second can last in the twenty first when they no longer reflect the realities on the ground this volume aims to look at some of the issues to see how the faultlines in the region appear in 2020 to both those in the region and those outside it the volume limits itself to only levant and the gulf and looks at the tensions within and policies both foreign and domestic of some of the key regional players which have regional repercussions it also looks at the policies of some of the global players operating in the region that have bearing on the regional faultlines print edition not for sale in south asia india sri lanka nepal bangladesh pakistan and bhutan this book is based on papers presented at the conference however it is not a typical publication of academic conference proceedings because the topics are not completely congruent with those of the conference some lectures that could not be held due to travel restrictions related to the coronavirus pandemic were submitted as book contributions in addition i also wrote a short contribution on the jewish history of the region which has been often neglected in previous presentations of the region the various authors for this volume have been intensively involved with the region in recent years however the authors do not only focus on the situation on the ground but also on the international context of the autonomous administration the conflict in syria is no longer just a civil war but a transnational conflict with important roles played not only by actors such as russia or the usa but also turkey or iran given the transnationality of the conflict and the role of the hegemonic powers these authors share thoughtful analyses from very different perspectives it is important to share these diverse views with the world so that the tragic conflict might become more comprehensible this does not mean however that i necessarily advocate each particular position taken by the varied contributors to this book the intent is to offer you multiple perspectives and certainly not a common narrative since the end of world war i the kurds have had no national rights and their country kurdistan was divided and occupied by iran iraq turkey syria and former soviet union as an international colony and the kurds have been prosecuted massacred assimilated and denied the very basic human rights whether the kurds are demanding full independence or a more limited autonomy or extension of electricity for their villages in these states the kurdish people face severe restrictions and harsh oppression here is some of what happened to western kurdistan as an example to the rest of kurdistan
