health may be defined as a state of balance in our body mind and soul when this balance is disturbed so is our health however the balance in our health is fundamentally related to the balance in our society imbalances in our societies particularly of a socioeconomic nature would naturally affect our inner balance and health hence this book argues that imbalances in the distribution of socioeconomic resources have led to inequities in health both within and between nations it systematically explores the roots of inequalities in markets as the dominant distributive mechanisms in advanced capitalist economies to show their inherent biases against the poor and less powerful it also describes the various social protections that have been put in place in the post war era to protect the vulnerable among us and documents how such protections have been rolled back with the rise of neoliberalism especially after the recent financial crisis it calls for social medicine both in the sense of understanding health as the outcome of social conditions and as the necessity of a collective approach for addressing health inequities through a social polity as it contains the costs and sustains the healthcare systems david m craig traveled across the united states to assess health care access delivery and finance in this country he interviewed religious hospital administrators and interfaith activists learning how they balance the values of economic efficiency and community accountability he met with conservatives liberals and moderates reviewing their ideas for market reform or support for the affordable care act he discovered that health care in the us is not a private good or a public good decades of public policy and philanthropic service have made health care a shared social good health care as a social good religious values and the american democracy argues that as escalating health costs absorb more and more of family income and government budgets we need to take stock of the full range of health care values to create a different and more affordable community based health care system transformation of that system is a national priority but americans have failed to find a way to work together that bypasses our differences craig insists that community engagement around the common religious conviction that healing is a shared responsibility can help us achieve this transformation one that will not only help us realize a new and better system but one that reflects the ideals of american democracy and the common good
