changing preferences is a phenomenon often invoked but rarely properly accounted for throughout the history of the social sciences researchers have come against the possibility that their subjects preferences were affected by the phenomenon to be explained or by other factors not taken into account in the explanation sporadically attempts have been made to systematically investigate these influences but none of these seems to have had a lasting impact today we are still not much further with respect to preference change than we were at the middle of the last century this anthology hopes to provide a new impulse for research into this important subject in particular we have chosen two routes to amplify this impulse first we stress the use of modelling techniques familiar from economics and decision theory instead of constructing complex all encompassing theories of preference change the authors of this volume start with very simple formal accounts of some possible and hopefully plausible mechanism of preference change eventually these models may find their way into larger empirically adequate theories but at this stage we think that the most important work lies in building structure secondly we stress the importance of interdisciplinary exchange only by drawing together experts from different fields can the complex empirical and theoretical issues in the modelling of preference change be adequately investigated this book by an influential moral philosopher focuses on how value judgments and moral belief can be justified renewable energy is a subject of great interest today it is one of the two main means for implementing climate change mitigation programmes and presently the only perceived means for replacing the declining global fossil fuel reserves it also helps fight poverty and assists in the global quest for gender equity by taking clean energy where it is needed most for development it is perhaps not surprising therefore that there is so much coverage of re in both the conventional media and the internet by media and tech writers economists and bloggers many of who only have a partial understanding of the technology itself the end result is mostly promotional rhetoric that says little about the true value of the technology and leads to a confused picture for the serious individual or decision maker who wants to know what the technology is really capable of doing this book provides a clear and factual picture of the status of re and its capabilities today the need for such a book was first realized by the author when he was engaged in a renewable energy capacity building project encompassing countries from europe the caribbean africa and the pacific the book is largely non technical in nature it does however contain enough mention of the science and technology to enable readers to go further with their own investigations should they wish to the book covers all areas of renewable energy re starting from biomass energy and hydropower and proceeding to wind solar and geothermal energy before ending with an overview of ocean energy it begins with a simple introduction to the physical principles of the re technologies followed by an enumeration of the requirements for their successful implementation the last two chapters consider how the technologies are actually being implemented today and their roles in climate change mitigation and poverty alleviation human history is a history of powerful civilisations which collapsed for various reasons but behind all of those reasons there was the inability of each civilisation to adapt to changes that were introduced by the human race itself or by the external environment judging from history we can expect that our civilisation might collapse as well this book takes a look at the huge changes brought by new technology that was introduced by humans over the past few decades and might have the power to destroy the modern civilisation it analyses social disadvantages of the new technology and attempts to answer the question of what has to be done to enable society to adapt to the new techology embrace it and use it for the collective good it also explains how to recognize fake news why orson welles was a fake news visionary and why monica lewinsky was one of the first victims of the modern new technology while africa is too often regarded as lying on the periphery of the global political arena this is not the case african nations have played an important historical role in world affairs it is with this understanding that the authors in this volume set out upon researching and writing their chapters making an important collective contribution to our understanding of modern africa taken as a whole the chapters represent the range of research in african development and fully tie this development to the global political economy african nations play significant roles in world politics both as nations influenced by the ebbs and flows of the global economy and by the international political system but also as actors directly influencing politics and economics it is only through an understanding of both the history and present place of africa in global affairs that we can begin to assess the way forward for future development this book is the first book that looks at both the politics of maintaining the trajectory toward humanity s final hundred years and the politics of those final hundred years it is the first book to take up theoretical and practical aspects with respect to both the movement toward and events during these final hundred years as a result it is the first book that attempts to provide a more complete picture of the politics of catastrophic human caused environment change the fact that the book provides a way into the variety of policy problems that catastrophic human caused environment change is creating means that it is also important to those in public policy the book also raises a series of philosophical and ethical questions associated with human rights which are significant to those who study political philosophy and some of those who study law international action to mitigate the effects of climate change the nature of science and the limitations of political institutions in religious feminist activist laurel zwiessler investigates the political and religious identities of women who understand their social justice activism as religiously motivated placing these women in historical context as faith based activists for social change this book discusses what their activities reveal about the public significance of religion in the pluralistic context of north america and in our increasingly globalized world zwiessler s ethnographic interviews with feminist catholics pagans and united church protestants reveal radically different views of religious and political expression and illuminate how individual women and their communities negotiate issues of personal identity spirituality and political responsibility political activists of faith recount adventurous tales of run ins with police agonizing moments of fear and powerlessness in the face of global inequality touching moments of community support and successful projects that improve the lives of others religious feminist activist combines religion politics and globalization subjects frequently discussed in macro terms with individual personalities and intimate stories to provide a fresh perspective on what it means to be religiously and politically engaged zwiessler also provides an insightful investigation into how religion and politics intersect for women on the political left in dreadful desires charlie yi zhang examines how the chinese state deploys affective notions of love to regulate the population and secure china s place in the global economy zhang shows how the state frames love as a set of desires that encompass heteronormative intimacy familial and communal attachment upward mobility and private property ownership these desires as circulated in performance in the nationalistic ceremony same sex romantic fan fiction the wildly popular reality television dating show if you are the one and the cult of patriarchal personality around xi jinping are explicitly based in oppressive systems of gender class and sexuality zhang contends that such desires connect love to economic survival and gender normativity in ways that underwrite chinese neoliberalism at the expense of individual flourishing by outlining how state framed forms of love create desires that cannot be fulfilled zhang places china at the forefront of using affective attachments to nation leader and family in the global shifts toward exploitation and authoritarianism leadership accountability for violence corruption and environmental harm is a new aspect of globalization and civil society this innovative forward looking analysis explains how cumulative lock in fuels leadership deceit the lessons are for those learning to be or learning to question leaders whenever we try to be good or expect others to be good we disconnect from the freedom joy and unconditional love that is our natural birthright it is only when we aim to be happy and reach for our dreams that we reconnect with source energy and release our loving creative and unique potential leading spiritual writer gill edwards explains that a deep magical and joyous reality lies just beyond our reach if only we can find the key to unlock the door in wild love she helps us find that elusive key by giving up our old patterns of relating and aligning ourselves with source energy wild love is a beautifully written and inspiring book which will help you to become wild and free and to become a passionate and visionary co creator of your own heaven and earth the new edition of a milestone work on the global history of technology this milestone history of technology first published in 1990 and now revised and expanded in light of recent research broke new ground by taking a global view avoiding the conventional eurocentric perspective and placing the development of technology squarely in the context of a world civilization case studies include technological dialogues between china and west asia in the eleventh century medieval african states and the islamic world and the united states and japan post 1950 it examines railway empires through the examples of russia and japan and explores current synergies of innovation in energy supply and smartphone technology through african cases the book uses the term technological dialogue to challenges the top down concept of technology transfer showing instead that technologies are typically modified to fit local needs and conditions often triggering further innovation the authors trace these encounters and exchanges over a thousand years examining changes in such technologies as agriculture firearms printing electricity and railroads a new chapter brings the narrative into the twenty first century discussing technological developments including petrochemicals aerospace and digitalization from often unexpected global viewpoints and asking what new kind of industrial revolution is needed to meet the challenges of the anthropocene human resources and their development is a component of encyclopedia of human resources policy development and management in the global encyclopedia of life support systems eolss which is an integrated compendium of twenty one encyclopedias the theme on human resources and their development provides the essential aspects and a myriad of issues of great relevance to our world such as human resources and their development major issues in human resource development elements of planning strategies for human resource development human life systems diversity and human development human development and causes of global change consequences of global change for human resource development these two volumes are aimed at the following five major target audiences university and college students educators professional practitioners research personnel and policy analysts managers and decision makers and ngos the climate change problem can only be effectively dealt with if global anthropogenic greenhouse gas ghg emissions can be reduced substantially since the emission of such gases is closely related to the economic growth of countries a critical problem to be addressed by the united nations framework convention on climate change fccc is how will the permissible emission levels be shared between industrialised ics and developing countries dcs the thesis of this book is that the long term effectiveness of the fccc runs the risk of a horizontal negotiation deadlock between countries and the risk of vertical standstill within countries if there is little domestic support for the domestic implementation of measures being announced in international negotiations the research question is can one observe trends towards horizontal deadlock and vertical standstill and if yes how can the treaty design be improved so as to avoid such potential future bottlenecks the research focuses on the perspectives of domestic actors on the climate convention and related issues in four developing countries india indonesia kenya and brazil the following key findings emerge from the research 1 handicapped negotiating power the common theme of the foreign policy of dcs is that ics are responsible for the bulk of the ghg emissions and need to take appropriate domestic action a lively and engaging discussion about the nature of death and the permissibility or otherwise of killing this open access book provides an exploration of the consequences of the ontological differences between natural and social objects sometimes described as objects of nature and objects of thought in the workings of causal and agency relationships one of its important and possibly original conclusions is that causal and agency relationships do not encompass all of the dependent relationships encountered in social life the idea that social reality is contingent has been known and largely undisputed at least since wittgenstein s on certainty but social science and most notably economics has continued to operate on the basis of causal and agency theories borrowed or adapted from the natural sciences this volume contains essays that retain and justify the partial or qualified use of this approach and essays that totally reject any use of causal and agency theory built on determined facts closed systems the rejection is based on the possibly original claim that whereas causation in the objects of the natural sciences reside in their properties human action is a matter of intentionality it engages with critical realist theory and re examines the role of free will in theories of human action in general and economic theory in particular social justice is a matter of life and death it affects the way people live their consequent chance of illness and their risk of premature death we watch in wonder as life expectancy and good health continue to increase in parts of the world and in alarm as they fail to improve in others
