aiming to contribute to the reader s greater understanding of lebanese government and politics this book provides a comprehensive examination of the origin development and institutionalization of sectarian consociationalism in lebanon a recurrent proposition advanced in this book is that lebanese sectarian consociationalism has been both a cure and a curse in the formulation of political settlements and institution building on the one hand and in contrast to many surrounding arab regimes consociational arrangements have provided the country with a relative democratic political life a limited government with a strong confessional division of power and a built in checks and balance mechanism prevented the emergence of dictatorship or monarchy on the other hand a chronic weak state has complicated efforts for nation building in favour of sectarian fragmentation external interventions and strong polarization that periodically brought the country to the verge of total collapse and civil war while examining lebanese sectarian politics of conflict and concession during different historic junctures many revelations are made that underlie the role of domestic and international forces shaping the country's future presenting an implicit description of the power and functions of the various branches of government within the context of sectarian consociationalism this book is an important introductory text for students of lebanese politics and middle eastern politics more broadly this book is a collection of essays that were originally presented at a conference at the lebanese american university in late may 2007 entitled politics culture and the lebanese diaspora it looks at various facets of the lebanese diaspora and examines the politics and culture of lebanese migrants and their descendants in different parts of the world while detailing the communal national and transnational elements of these practices and exploring the changing characteristics of politics and culture in respect to migration diaspora and globalization the essays raise questions about the in compatible and interpenetrating relationships between these dynamics and analyze processes of identity formation as cultural manifestations of migratory politics the book is divided into three main sections the first section deals with issues of identity and multiculturalism among lebanese emigrants concluding that identities are continuously molded and negotiated in the diaspora it examines the formation of identities among second and third generation migrants and the changing conceptions of the meaning of roots and homelands the second section deals with politics and activism in the diaspora it looks at how diasporas relate to the political processes in their homelands during post conflict resolution and explores the role of lebanese migrants abroad in the process of peace building back home the third part deals with the diaspora in literature and media through the assessment of key writings on the explorations of self of the lebanese abroad drawing on how symbols of identification and conventions of representation become sites of conflict over time the wide variety of perspectives presented in these papers invite us to challenge the notion of a fixed bounded and rigid homeland and identity and move towards one that is more nomadic and fluid they call us to pay attention to the symbols used in the cultural construction of both homelands and identities in the country of immigration and to think of the complex ways in which transnational politics affect the homeland and are in turn affected by it against a background of weak and contested national identity and capricious interaction between religious affiliation and confessional politics this book illustrates in detailed analysis this comprehensive project of islamism according to its ideological and practical evolutionary change lebanon is an exceptionally misunderstood country its religious politics are typically misrepresented and denigrated in western political commentary politics and war in lebanon offers a lucid examination of lebanese society and politics mordechai nisan examines lebanon in its own terms on its own cultural turf he then points to the causes of political disintegration in 1975 and explores the capacity of lebanon to recover and retain its unique national poise avoiding disorienting western stereotypes nisan presents lebanon in its own native frame of reference as a multi ethnic country that operates according to its immutable and enigmatic political forms lebanon is different from other arab countries as demonstrated through its very complex electoral system its tradition of cross elite cooperation and its special sense of lebanese national identity that differentiates it from its overbearing syrian neighbor nisan explores intra maronite christian feuds identifies syria's occupation strategy analyzes the violence of the palestinians and studies israel's failed policy strategy and the role of hezbollah in the lebanese power equation lebanon is caught between its special historical identity as a country of poise creativity and liberty and the interminable warfare in the streets and villages of the country although its future appears dim its resilience enabled it to prevail in the past and may yet continue to do so this book explores the extent to which race and racialisation offer us an explanatory framework to study the contemporary politics of identity in the middle east today most studies of the middle east commonly presume that the race signifier is reserved for the juxtaposition of black and white identity to which the arab persian and turkish world counts itself as exterior up until now few works on the middle east have discussed race as central to their analysis this book works to remedy this shortcoming by extending the critical scholarship on race and racial subordination to the region's states and societies crucially how does race interact with and confront other categories of identity such as gender religion sect and nationality what can a consideration of racialisation reveal about structures of oppression in the middle east and evolving forms of belonging and dispossession adopting race as the focus of enquiry allows us to unpack what we are really talking about when we talk about difference in the region the reproduction and resilience of power and the insidious harmful mutations of identity based discrimination in unequal societies the politics of race and racialisation in the middle east is a significant new contribution to racial and ethnic studies and will be a great resource for academics researchers and advanced students of sociology politics history social anthropology political and cultural geography the chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of ethnic and racial studies lebanon hosts the highest number of refugees per capita worldwide and is central to european policies of outsourcing migration management hybrid political order and the politics of uncertainty is the first book to critically and comprehensively explore the parallels between the country s engagement with the recent syrian refugee influx and the more protracted palestinian presence drawing on fieldwork qualitative case studies and critical policy analysis it questions the dominant idea that the haphazardness inconsistency and fragmentation of refugee governance are only the result of forced displacement or host state fragility and the related capacity problems it demonstrates that the endemic ambiguity that determines refugee governance also results from a lack of political will to create coherent and comprehensive rules of engagement to address refugee crises building on emerging literatures in the fields of critical refugee studies hybrid governance and ignorance studies it proposes an innovative conceptual framework to capture the spatial temporal and procedural dimensions of the uncertainty that refugees face and to tease out the strategic components of the reproduction and extension of such informality liminality and exceptionalism in developing the notion of a politics of uncertainty ambiguity is explored as a component of a governmentality that enables the control exploitation and expulsion of refugees introduction chapter of this book is available for free in pdf format as open access from the individual product page at routledge com it has been made available under a creative commons attribution non commercial no derivatives 4 0 license the lebanese legal system is the first reference work in the english language to present a comprehensive study of the law in lebanon comprised of two volumes this work includes contributions by judges professors of law practicing attorneys and high ranking officials in lebanon their expertise provides unique insight into the substantive law and the cultural political and practical operation of the lebanese legal system the cedar revolution in lebanon which was sparked by the assassination of former prime minister rafiq hariri on 14 february 2005 was seen by many as an opportunity for lebanon s fragile political system to move towards a more stable form of democracy but contrary to these expectations in the years since syrian military withdrawal in april 2005 lebanon has been plagued with sectarian and political unrest and conflict abbas assi here explores the obstacles that impeded the democratic transition process and how subsequent events since 2005 such as the passing of unscr 1559 the 2006 hizbullah israel war and the syrian conflict have bolstered this trend by looking at these assi examines how the intersection of the influence of external factors and powers with domestic conflicts has shaped the behaviour of political parties and has had implications on their ability to reach compromises and initiate democratic reforms by analysing the impact of the intersection of domestic and external factors on democracy this book is a vital reference for those studying politics of lebanon and the middle east more broadly giusi russo examines the united nations gendered politics of colonialism and decolonization from its founding until the mid 1970s in an era of globalization international communication constantly takes place across borders defying sovereign control as it influences opinion while diplomacy between states is the visible face of international relations this informal diplomacy is usually less visible but no less powerful information politics can be found in propaganda internet politics educational exchanges tourism and even popular film the international politics of communication examines this informational dimension of international politics investigating how information is generated conveyed through channels and directed specifically at audiences while citizens are often portrayed as faithfully loyal supporters and beneficiaries of the modern nation state a fiction supported by passports identification papers and other notarized credentials they are subject to the pulls of loyalty from transnational tribal affiliations mythological and historical narratives of ethnicity as well as the transcendental claims of religion and philosophy increasingly social media also enchants non state individuals providing new virtual communities as the center of loyalties rather than national affiliations by reinterpreting taken for granted concepts in journalism media political economy nationalism development and propaganda as information politics this book prepares serious minded scholars citizens politicians and social activists everywhere to understand the power plays in international communication and use alternatives to begin transforming power relations traditionally humanitarianism is considered a nonpolitical urgent response to human suffering however this characterization ignores the politics that create and are created by the crises and the increasingly long term dimension of relief in the politics of crisis making by shedding light on how humanitarian practice becomes enmeshed with diverse forms of welfare and development estella carpi exposes how the politics of defining crises affect the social identity and membership of the displaced her ethnographic research in lebanon brings to light interactions among aid workers government officials internally displaced citizens migrants and refugees after the 2006 war in beirut s southern suburbs and during the 2011 2013 arrival of refugees from syria to the akkar district northern lebanon by documenting different cultures modalities and traditions of assistance carpi offers a full account of how the politics of crisis making play out in lebanon an important read the politics of crisis making shows that it is not crisis per se but rather the crisis as official discourse and management that are able to reshuffle societies while engendering unequal political moral and nationality based economies democracy is a very important system of government found all over the world a cardinal principle of democracy is periodic elections elections have various forms of propaganda at different levels whether for unity division continuity or another purpose it is essential to research further into the developments in propaganda and political unrest so that global democracies may ensure credible elections and smooth governmental processes insights and explorations in democracy political unrest and propaganda in elections investigates how democratic governments can ensure credible elections in a peaceful atmosphere and an atmosphere of political unrest amidst various propagandas the book assesses whether democratic peace is expected in all democracies despite the free occurrence of political unrest across many democratic societies in europe america asia and africa covering topics such as democratic accountability political leadership and youth marginalization this premier reference source is an essential resource for government officials public policy brokers politicians students and educators of higher education researchers and academicians exploring the interlinkages of political parties religiosity and women s leadership and nominations to public office this book argues that as party religiosity increases women s chances of assuming leadership positions fall combining qualitative and quantitative methods it advances a new theory of party variation in religiosity history is written by the winners is the received wisdom this book explains why historical interpretation has to incorporate perspectives from those other than winners and demonstrates archaeology s crucial role in this wide ranging approach the book draws more on africa afro america australasia and oceania than on europe the source of the traditionally dominant perspective in archaeology the four organizing themes of the politics of the past are the forms and consequences of the eurocentric heritage the conflicting perspectives of rulers and ruled the significance of administrative and institutional rivalries and the cleavages that divide professional from popular views of archaeology archaeologists anthropologists historians and other scholars will find the politics of the past illuminating and provocative it will enrich historical and archaeological inquiry and interpretation and ramify their relevance for public policy clientelism and ethnic favoritism appear to go hand in hand in many diverse societies in the developing world however while some ethnic communities receive generous material rewards for their political support others receive very modest payoffs the price of a vote in the middle east examines this key and often overlooked component of clientelism the author draws on elite interviews and original survey data collected during his years of field research in lebanon and yemen two arab countries in which political constituencies follow sectarian regional and tribal divisions he demonstrates that voters in internally competitive communal groups receive more and better payoffs for their political support than voters trapped in uncompetitive groups dominated by a single hegemonic leader ultimately politicians provide services when compelled by competitive pressures to do so whereas leaders sheltered from competition can and do take their supporters for granted this book offers a comparative lens on the contested relationship between two leading conflict resolution norms ethno-political power sharing pacts and the women peace and security wps agenda championed by national governments and international organizations over the last two decades power sharing and feminist scholars and practitioners tend to view them as opposing norms critics charge that power sharing scholars cast gender as an inconsequential political identity that does not motivate people like ethnonationalism from a feminist perspective such thinking serves the interests of ethnicized elites while excluding women and other marginalized communities from key sites of political power this edited volume takes a different tack while recognizing the gender gaps that still exist in power sharing theory and practice contributors also emphasize the constructive engagements that can be built between ethno-political power sharing and gender inclusion three main themes are highlighted the gender silences of existing power sharing arrangements the impact of gender activism and advocacy on the negotiation and implementation of power sharing pacts in divided societies the opportunities for linkages between power sharing and the women peace and security agenda the chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal nationalism and ethnic politics kiryat shmona located near the israeli lebanese border often makes the news whenever there is an outbreak of violence between the two countries in israel s northernmost city the residents are mostly mizrahim that is jews descending from arab and muslim lands cathrine thorleifsson uses the dynamics at play along this border to develop wider conclusions about the nature of nationalism identity ethnicity and xenophobia in israel and the ways in which these shift over time and are manipulated in different ways for various ends she explores the idea of being on the periphery of nationhood examining the identity forming and negotiating processes of these mizrahim who do not neatly dovetail with the predominantly ashkenazi concept of what it means to be israeli through in depth ethnographic observation and analysis thorleifsson highlights the daily negotiation of moroccan and persian jewish families who define themselves in opposition to ashkenazi jews from russia and central and eastern europe and the druze christian and muslim arab populations which surround them but this is not just an examination of differences and stereotypes which are continually perpetuated instead thorleifsson highlights the instances of inter marriage between mizrahi and ashkenazi jews and what this means for the high politics of nationalist narratives as well as the everyday aspect of family dynamics but having done so she does also acknowledge that many of israel s laws which deal with ethnic identity do result in discrimination and daily exclusion against a large number of its citizens something which reflects the ethnocratic character of the state by including all of these different aspects of the daily negotiation of identity in a northern town in israel thorleifsson offers a frank and balanced account of the nature of state nationalism and the people who are affected by it covering an interesting aspect of israeli society which is often overlooked this account of relations between both ashkenazi and mizrahi jews and those between mizrahi jews and palestinians is an important contribution to the study of israeli and middle eastern societies this book examines the legacy of lebanon s civil war and how the population and the youth in particular are dealing with their national past drawing on extensive qualitative research and social observation the author explores the efforts of those who wish to remember so as not to repeat past mistakes and those who wish to forget in considering how the lebanese youth are negotiating this collective memory larkin addresses issues of lebanese post war amnesia and the gradual emergence of new memory discourses and public debates lebanese nationalism and historical memory visual memory and mnemonic landscapes oral memory and post war narratives war memory as an agent of ethnic conflict and a tool for reconciliation and peace building trans generational trauma or postmemory shedding new light on trauma and the persistence of ethnic and religious hostility this book offers a unique insight into lebanon s recurring communal tensions and a fresh perspective on the issue of war memory as such this is an essential addition to the existing literature on lebanon and will be relevant for scholars of sociology middle east studies anthropology politics and history the complex relationship between syria and lebanon is the political fulcrum of the middle east and has dominated headlines since the withdrawal of french colonial forces from the levant in 1943 one of the great paradoxes of this relationship is how two such very different political systems emerged in what many syrian and lebanese people see as one society at the time of independence it was assumed that only the divide and rule strategies of foreign powers kept the arab peoples artificially separated in this major new book yousef chaitani examines how despite the prevalence of arab nationalism and the regression of imperial interference syria and lebanon became more divided rather than more integrated in the post independence period drawing on untapped sources from the archives of western foreign offices and the local press chaitani uncovers the strategies and motivations of both countries elites during this period and produces conclusions which have major implications for our understanding of arab nationalism as well as the complexities of the syrian lebanese relationship nabih barri is a key figure in the lebanese and shi ite politics for the last three decades as the leader of the shi ite amal movement since 1980 and as the lebanese speaker since 1992 barri played a major role in all political events and processes in lebanon between the early 1980 s and today including the current severe lebanese crisis an indispensable reference that will help students understand the major ethnic conflicts that dominate the headlines and shape the modern world since world war ii significant conflicts have most often taken the form of acts of violence between ethnic or national communities inside individual states this two volume work uses case studies to explore some four dozen of those conflicts making it an ideal first stop reference for students and others who wish to quickly gain an understanding of ethnic struggles content from the first edition is updated and new entries on recent conflicts have been added the set s geographical range which encompasses nearly every continent is matched by the diversity of the conflicts explored these include internal conflicts such as those experienced by african americans in the united states and muslims in france as well as separatist movements of groups like the chechens in russia and bosnians in yugoslavia headline making conflicts for example those in mali and syria are covered as well the book is organized alphabetically by country and region each essay begins with a timeline and then explores the historical background evolution efforts to manage and significance of the conflict suggestions for follow up research and appendices of relevant primary source materials are also included spanning five continents this cutting edge book provides a thorough international overview of equality diversity and inclusion at work analysing the demographics of the workplace and the economic outcomes achieved by different segments of the population it offers readers a better understanding of diverse work environments and how they are influenced by legislation and populations this book examines claims for recognition of cultural difference from immigrant and indigenous minorities highlighting the ways in which they intersect with ideas of national community busbridge argues that there is an important albeit under explored relationship between nation and multicultural politics of recognition drawing on the australian context the book explores how nation features as a productive if somewhat ambivalent discursive resource in contemporary muslim and aboriginal struggles to be recognised in demanding recognition minorities enter into the business of making the nation by positing alternative conceptions of national identity culture and belonging that are more attentive to their differences and claims this dynamic is engaged as an expression of postcolonial citizenship postcolonial citizenship is imagined in terms of the ways in which minority groups actualise multicultural realities through rewriting ideas of national community it underlines the critical importance of revising the power relations that deem some groups more national and others less so and which in western multicultural societies are typically tied to notions of the west and its others this book is an important conceptual theoretical and political intervention that brings postcolonialism and multiculturalism into dialogue on the increasingly potent issues of nation and national identity it will be of great interest to scholars and students of sociology politics postcolonial studies culture identity and nation this volume brings together eighteen of will kymlicka s recent essays on nationalism multiculturalism and citizenship these essays expand on the well known theory of minority rights first developed in his multicultural citizenship in these new essays kymlicka applies his theory to several pressing controversies regarding ethnic relations today responds to some of his critics and situates the debate over minority rights within the larger context of issues of nationalism democratic citizenship and globalization the essays are divided into four sections the first section summarizes the state of the debate over minority rights and explains how the debate has evolved over the past 15 years the second section explores the requirements of ethnocultural justice in a liberal democracy kymlicka argues that the protection of individual human rights is insufficient to ensure justice between ethnocultural groups and that minority rights must supplement human rights in particular kymlicka explores why some form of power sharing such as federalism is often required to ensure justice for national minorities why indigenous peoples have distinctive rights relating to economic development and environmental protection and why we need to define fairer terms of integration for immigrants the third section focuses on nationalism kymlicka discusses some of the familiar misinterpretations and preconceptions which liberals have about nationalism and defends the need to recognize that there are genuinely liberal forms of nationalism he discusses the familiar but misleading contrast between cosmopolitanism and nationalism and discusses why liberals have gradually moved towards a position that combines elements of both the final section explores how these increasing demands by ethnic and national groups for minority rights affect the practice of democratic citizenship kymlicka surveys recent theories of citizenship and raises questions about how they are challenged by ethnocultural diversity he emphasizes the importance of education as a site of conflict between demands for accommodating ethnocultural diversity and demands for promoting the common virtues and loyalties required by democratic citizenship and finally he explores the extent to which globalization requires us to think about citizenship in more global terms or whether citizenship will remain tied to national institutions and political processes taken together these essays make a major contribution to enriching our understanding of the theory and practice of ethnocultural relations in western democracies historical dictionary of lebanon second edition covers the long history of lebanon from before the ottoman era through the ottoman era the french mandate independence the long civil war and the recent protests for democratic reform and the aftermath of the explosion in the port area it features lengthy entries on major historical political events as well as the major people sectarian groups and political parties it contains a chronology an introduction and an extensive bibliography the dictionary section has more than 800 cross referenced entries on important personalities as well as aspects of the country s politics economy foreign relations religion and culture this book is an excellent resource for students researchers and anyone wanting to know more about lebanon this work is a combination of an account of lebanese personality etienne sakr with a penetrating analysis of the historical and religious contours of lebanon

the convention on the elimination of all forms of racial discrimination is the centrepiece of international efforts to address racial discrimination defined in broad terms to include discrimination based on skin colour descent ethnic and national origin victims of discrimination within the scope of the convention include minorities indigenous peoples non citizens and caste or descent groups virtually all national societies are diverse in terms of ethnicity or race and none is free from discrimination making it one of the great issues of our time against the background of international human rights standards and mechanisms to counter racial and ethnic discrimination this book provides the first comprehensive legal analysis of the provisions of the convention on an article by article basis the book addresses the place of the convention within the broader framework of united nation s action against discrimination the different chapters analyse and discuss broad topics of race ethnicity and international law the genesis and drafting of the convention the aims and objectives of the convention in light of its preamble and principles of non discrimination and equality in particular the book includes a critical appraisal of the contribution of the convention to the eradication of racial discrimination it also reflects on whether there is scope for modification of the substance or procedures of the convention in light of challenges arising from enhanced transnational population movements the intersection between discrimination on the ground of race and discrimination against religious communities and the intersection of racial and gender based discrimination ameen rihani 1876 1940 was an influential arab american thinker writer and political activist and was one of the most prominent humanist intellectuals of the twentieth century he was born in freike lebanon and emigrated to the united states at the age of 12 he was recognized in his time as a leading figure in the world of arab american literature a pioneer of the mahjar literary movement arabic lebanese migration literature and of contemporary arabic prose poetry a prolific writer he published nearly 30 books in english alone in his writing and political activism rihani s prime concern was engagement and mutual respect between the arab world and the west a concern which bears striking relevance to global affairs today undertaking a comprehensive reading of rihani s arabic and english published works including his creative writings essays correspondence and historical and travel books nijmeh hajjar examines the dialectical link between rihani s life experiences in the arabworld europe and the usa with his ideas and activism the book highlights rihani s progressive secular humanist vision his concerns about the need for arab societies to achieve progress liberal democracy and social justice and his emphasis upon a mutual respect between the arab world and the west particularly the usa great britain and france this fascinating illustration of an arab american encounter contributes to post and neo colonial discourse and provides a balancing counterpoint to the predominant ideological clash of civilisations paradigms the politics and poetics of ameen rihani furthers our understanding of the arab islamic world and its relationship with the west which remains one of the most important issues of our times lebanon experienced serious instability and ethno national conflict following the syrian withdrawal in 2005 compounded by the arab spring which led to regional instability and civil war in iraq and syria why did consociational democracy fail was failure inevitable what impact could external powers play in creating an environment where consociationalism might be successfully implemented this book addresses these key questions and provides a comprehensive analysis of how internal and external elite relations influence the chances of a successful regulation of ethno national conflict through power sharing exploring the roles played by syria qatar iran saudi arabia the united states and france it argues that external actors in the lebanese conflict largely determined whether power sharing was successfully established and shows that the consociational democratic model cannot provide long term conflict regulation in their absence the author argues that relationships between internal and external actors determine the prospects for successful conflict regulation and pinpoints the crucial role of the external forces in the creation of power sharing agreements in lebanon concluding that future success is dependent on the maintenance of positive exogenous pressures this book will be of key interest to students and scholars studying politics international relations and middle east studies one of the fundamental questions of middle eastern and lebanese studies in particular is the history of the relationship between the druze community and the state in modern lebanon arguing that the druze community has been politically alienated from the lebanese state this book explores the historical and political origins of this alienation the druze community and the lebanese state contends that the origins of this alienation lie in the state s national ideology its political confessional system and the druze s historical background during the medieval period moreover this book examines the extent to which the druze s attitude vis à vis the lebanese state has been influenced by their historical rivalry with the maronites particular emphasis is placed on the political and ideological practices adopted by the druze leadership and intelligentsia as they dealt with the changes taking place in their community s political status following the political settlements of 1920 and 1943 the establishment of greater lebanon and the national pact respectively a welcome addition to existing literature on lebanon this book will be an essential reference tool for students and researchers with an interest in nationalism identity and middle east politics more broadly
