news headlines warn of rivalries and competing nations across asia and the pacific even as powerful new cross border relations form as never before this book looks behind the asia pacific curtain at the new forms of social economic and political integration taking place through a global capitalism that is rife with contradictions inequality and crisis we are moved beyond traditional conceptualizations of the inter state system with its nation state competition as the core organizing principle of world capitalism and the principal institutional framework that shapes the makeup of global social forces these important studies examine and debate over how there is a growing transnationality of material economic relations in the global era as well as an emerging transnationality of many social and class relations how does transnational capitalist class fractions new middle strata and labor undergird globalization in asia and oceania how have states and institutions become entwined with such processes this book provides insight into a field of dynamic change

this book analyses the growing relationships among india the united states and japan in the indo pacific region which can broadly be defined as the space encompassing both the indian and the pacific oceans though different nations have their competing visions of its extent while on the one hand we have an ascendant china in all respects at the same time the us has continued interests in maintaining its leadership role in the region and beyond washington appears to employ a hub and spoke model where its most important ally in the region japan fits in perfectly as a point from which to connect to the rest of the region however the critical role will be that of india which is not an american ally but is key to many american plans in the region will india cooperate by examining the rapidly evolving relations among the three countries this book explores india's position in this region crucially this book will analyse how the outbreak of the covid 19 pandemic will upset power relations in the region it is suitable reading for advanced undergraduate and graduate students researchers and practitioners in the fields of international relations politics security

This book discusses the partnership between the US and India in the Indo-Pacific region which also serves as an engine for the Quad alliance of the US, India, Japan and Australia. It investigates the multilateral efforts taken by the Quad and its effects on changing, reforming or establishing a new regional security complex against China in the Indo-Pacific. The theory employed by the author is based on a novel construct of heterarchical regional security complex (HRC) which refers to a de-centralized principle of power distribution that is power is not concentrated in a particular element but rather diffused within the entire structure. When merged with the regional security complex (RSC) theory, it presumes the creation of such a security complex in which all members have roughly equal power. This book unravels how the Quad can operate as an HRC in balancing against China's growing hold in the region. It is supplemented by the balance of threat framework to discuss the functioning of the Quad from a multilateral perspective with a heterarchical overlay. Besides the Quad, this book also focuses on the blooming partnership between the US and India since the turn of the century (2007-2020). This book will be beneficial for researchers interested in international relations, Asian politics, regional security and Indo-Pacific studies.

The eighth volume in NBR's Strategic Asia series assesses the major strategic choices on Asia facing the new US president and administration as well as the broader policy community through a combination of country, regional and topical studies. The book analyzes the impact of US policy and geopolitical developments on Asia's transformation over the past eight years.

This book analyses the evolving geopolitics in the Indo-Pacific region and explains how Djibouti fits in the global strategies of four major powers: the US, China, Japan and France. It shows how Djibouti is emerging as a key nation in the geopolitics of the Indo-Pacific, explores the interconnections between Djibouti and the Indian and Pacific Oceans, and through Djibouti examines broader trends in contemporary great power politics in the Indo-Pacific region, including the Belt and Road Initiative of China. Moving beyond contemporary works on the region, the author integrates Africa and the Middle East with discussions on the Indo-Pacific to illustrate the coalescing of strategic geography from Eastern Africa to the western coast of the Americas. A major intervention, the volume will be essential reading for scholars, practitioners and researchers of politics and international relations, security studies, African studies, peace and conflict studies and maritime studies.
